- WGD is open to women and girls experiencing golf for the first time as well as existing female players.
- Women's Golf Day unites women across the globe and transcends race, religion, language, geography, or economic status.

BACKGROUND

- Women's Golf Day started in 2016 as a grassroots movement and post covid moved to scaling and engaging partners to create a sustainable business model to ensure this was a lasting program.
- Founder Elisa Gaudet was inspired to create a global event that unites women around the world through golf and encourages opportunities to introduce golf to new players and celebrate existing players.
- WGD is a proven player development platform that is supported by The R&A, USGA & The PGA of America as well as many other organizations, federations, governing bodies and industry leaders.
- Women's Golf Day brings together a team of industry leaders, governing bodies and global ambassadors which reflect the international community.

FORMAT

- Women's Golf Day events are a one-day four-hour experience for women and girls around the world.
- Female golfers and non-golfers come together to play golf and celebrate the building of community in a relaxed welcoming atmosphere.
- The event is designed to create an environment where women and girls can build a foundation in golf by establishing a network of friends and golf professionals that will ultimately support their continuation in the game.
- The WGD format offers attendees the choice between 2 hours of lessons or playing 9 holes for the first half of the event. In the second two hours all the participants come together for a social activity.
- Locations are encouraged to be creative when it comes to the social element by inviting a speaker, hosting a business development event, holding a pop-up shop, running a fashion show, or potentially creating a charity element. The locations decide if their event is public or private and whether the event is free or paid for.
